

Thato Moagi is an agripreneur developing and managing farming operations in Limpopo and Western Cape in South Africa. Her passion is in developing agricultural incubation platforms that serve as commercial farms that center around innovation and skills development.

Her aim is to develop socio-agrarian models for rural and periurban areas that will allow inclusive participation and skills development targeted at youth and women. Thato is knowledgeable in rural agriculture, commercial production of livestock and fresh vegetables, training, innovation integration, climate smart agriculture, indigenous crop production and apiary.

Thato has served in various leadership positions being selected as the first South African to be nominated as a Nuffield International Farming Scholar in 2017. She is an advocate for social development in the agrifood sector and advises The Presidency and African Farmers Association South Africa. Thato was awarded Young Farmer of the Year in 2015 and was recognized as an exceptional entrepreneur by the agricultural MEC of Limpopo.