

Jeffers Miruka

Chief Executive Officer: African Association of Agricultural Economists (AAAE)

President: African Society of Association Executives (AfSAE)

---

Jeffers Miruka is the CEO of the African Association of Agricultural Economists. AAAE is a Nairobi based professional association of agricultural and development economists with over 1500 members spread globally, with specific interest in African agricultural transformation. Mr. Miruka is also founder member and first president of the African Society of Association Executives (AfSAE). AfSAE is a pan-African professional community of association executives established in 2015 to serve as the professional society for those within the association management profession in Africa. AfSAE is headquartered in Johannesburg, South Africa. In 2019, Mr. Miruka founded the premier African AMC, African Association Management Company (AFAMCO), a joint venture with Talley Management Group Inc. (USA). Jeffers has a combined experience of over 14 years in association management and business events. He has a rich experience in association development, management and advisory. He is also a frequent speaker and contributor to many global association forums and media interviews.