

Dr. Manas R. Banerjee is the President & Chief Executive Officer for XiteBio Technologies Inc., a dynamic microbial biotechnology company head-quartered in Winnipeg, Canada. XiteBio is a leading edge ag-biological solutions provider to the North American and as well as some other international markets. Dr. Banerjee is an expert in soil microbiology & biotechnology and his research works encompasses soil-plant-microbial interactions, soil biological quality, and environmental sustainability. Dr. Banerjee obtained his Ph.D. from University of Aberdeen, UK and was engaged as researcher/scientist/professor capacity with the University of Saskatchewan, University of Manitoba, University of Western Ontario and Agriculture Agri-Food Canada. He also worked as a Director of R&D in a privately owned Canadian seed company. He has published numerous research papers, articles, book chapters and number of international patents that produced over 10 commercially successful ag-biological products for crops like soybean, corn, wheat, barley, pulses, canola, etc. His applied approach earned him or his company numerous awards like Agriculture Tech CEO of the Year 2017, Nominee Manning Award for Innovation 2017, Most Dynamic Microbial Technology Company 2016. He has given numerous presentations and often covered in the press.